

163rd Maryborough Highland Gathering

SPOTLIGHT 50 YEARS OF THE GIRL ON THE DRUM

For half a century, the Girl on the Drum has captivated audiences with its breathtaking display. A highland dancer, poised atop a massive bass drum, is lifted high on the shoulders of three burly Scots, surrounded by a full pipe band and dancers.

This unforgettable performance has become the signature moment of the Gathering, embodying the spirit, spectacle, and tradition of Maryborough's New Year celebrations.

The tradition began after long-time Highland Society member Morrie Hutchinson witnessed the performance in Aberdeen in 1960 and suggested it to then-President Bill Sinclair. On 1 January 1976, the first Maryborough performance featured local dancer Christine Maas, supported by drum bearers Darky Duncan, Barry Lugg, and Don Norton.

From 1976 to 2020, the Girl and Drum were lifted onto the shoulders of three bearers. In recent years, health and safety considerations led to the introduction of a support stand from 2024 onwards, ensuring the tradition continues safely for future generations. Despite interruptions during the COVID years and in 2023, dedicated mentors such as Andrew Rae and Chris Plover have kept the tradition alive by teaching new dancers, including Cobi Kaye, to carry it forward.

In 2026, the Gathering will pay tribute to this milestone with special acknowledgments and a commemorative performance, ensuring the 50th year of the Girl on the Drum is remembered as a defining chapter in the event's proud history.
